Tonight I watched the lights go out in your house,
Wondering how i could get so deep,
And you could still get sleep,
In vain i blame my trembling on the cold air
But I can't hide that i relied on you,
Like yellow does on blue

And you're my
Good Feeling
I'm kneeling
Inside a room
She paints me blue
And you are
My reason
For BREATHING
Inside a room
She paints me blue

Atlanta started raining on me,
And teenage love was underground,
Tonight I'll break the surface,
Atlanta started raining on me,
But no young girl was claiming me,
Or naming me,
And destiny gets nervous

And you're my
Good feeling
I'm kneeling
Inside a room
She paints me blue
And you are
My reason
For BREATHING
Inside a room
She paints me blue

Atlanta started raining on me,
On me,
Atlanta started raining on me...
