Take it all away
All the time that I had you here I could never fully appreciate
Until you

I never realized how much you cared for me
How much you longed to be
Until you were a fading memory
I never listened never held out my hand
And told you I understand
Till you blew away with the wind

I never wanted all that you offered me
All the support you gave Until you pulled it out from underneath

I never suffered never felt any pain
Always thought you were insane
Until you finally strayed
I never realized that you were a part of me
Without you to stand by my side
I feel so empty
