"Stranger"

I don't even know your name
But there's something about your face
And the way that you stole my breath
I'm afraid to blink in case you're not there
When my eyes open again

Cause what I really need is someone to hold me
Someone who cares, someone who really loves me

I wish I knew what I should say
Cause I don't want to scare you away
May have been a passing glance
But I want more, and I don't want to lose this chance

Cause what I really need is someone to hold me
Someone who cares, someone who really loves me
Could it be you, could you be the one for me Stranger things have happened, stranger things have happened
