My baby's building a sand castle
And someday we're gonna live on the shores
But now a days we just hold our breath
Until the meeting next Monday

And it's going through the roof
We're blowing through the roof
If only you guys could see us

Me and my baby, we bicker
But I know the talented devil inside
And so we bond over raising toasts
Two absent minds who paint the sky
Two absent minds expecting to fly

My baby does tend to contradict
It's only natural

That it's going through the roof
B-blowing through the roof
If only you guys could see that
I'm giving you the proof
I'm telling you the truth
They were gonna call tomorrow

Two absent minds expecting to fly

My baby knows how the world goes around
We'll jump the rails and abandon this town
Sometimes I blush when imaging
How big it's gonna be really, really

Blowing through the roof
We're going through the roof
If only the world would follow
I'm giving you the proof
What do I have to do
To make sure you all believe us?

If only you guys could see us now
