Yesterday I saw her
With a flag and some gasoline
She was dancing for freedom
That's what all the newspapers said

Her motion filled the air
Her message on a wing on a prayer
A flutter as her flags wave
The shutter as I remember that day
I remember that day

Why did she choose too leave that way
She she tried to make us change
Now does anyone remember her words
Now that she's gone, now that she's gone
Now that she's gone, now that she's gone
Up in flames

Still I think about her pain
Such a sad confusing sacrifice
The vision, like a tattoo on my brain
Left a lot of people asking
Left a lot of people asking

Why did she choose too leave that way
She she tried to make us change
Now does anyone remember her words
Now that she's gone, now that she's gone
Now that she's gone, now that she's gone
Up in flames

When she said, choose the path of peace
Transform this nation and the world
Then, take a good look and ask yourself
What principle would I give my life for What principle could I give my life for

Why did she choose too leave that way
She she tried to make us change
Now does anyone remember her words
Now that she's gone, now that she's gone

Now that she's gone, now that she's gone
Up in flames
