Swing Wide the Glimmering Gates

I caught myself looking in the mirror
Wishing I was someone else
I was born, with a bleeding heart
And fades of loneliness

I know it,
I've seen it,
I've held it in my arms
But love can't seem to break me down

I've pleaded,
I've faked,
I've bloodied my eyes, just to feel it
To believe it will stick around (oh whoa)

Swing wide the glimmering gates
Swing wide the glimmering gates

I've told myself
I'm having some secrets
Just to get me through
To get me through the night

I got lost in a world of angles
And city and graves of lives

And I feel it,
I taste it
This longing to be free
(Oh) The joy, in believing like a child

So you,
You then listening
Will you send up a prayer for me?
To help me find the light?

Swing wide the glimmering gates
Leave your pride and pain
Swing wide the glimmering gates

And be innocent again
Innocent Again

Swing wide the glimmering gates

One day I believe
I open up my eyes
Just to see
The good work that was begun

And I'll be
The only things
I've ever wanted to be
And I'll know that I belong

Swing wide the glimmering gates
Leave your pride and pain
Swing wide the glimmering gates
And be innocent again
Innocent again
Be innocent again
Swing wide the glimmering gates
Leave your pride and pain (Swing Wide)
Swing wide the glimmering gates
And be innocent again (innocent, innocent again)
Swing wide the glimmering gates

Swing wide the glimmering gates
