Spotlight bright she's a diamond shining like a shooting star from in the sky Sighs every night at the same time Got to take a picture just to see her smile

It's the same old story, could write a novel about her eyes
Watch in wonder waiting, with anticipation, wanna be the one and only thing she could be breaking

She's so pretty, she says hello to the boys out of pity She's so pretty, how could we want anyone, anyone but you

She likes to stare she likes to look through you sitting with her peers she's empty in first class Found the one the one for the moment Quicksand sitting in the hourglass, it's the Same old story, you always want what you can't have Likes to keep pretending, leaves it open ended Living, breathing fairy tale that never should've ended

She's so pretty, her smile could light up this whole damn city
She's so pretty, how could we want anyone, anyone but
you
