There's always another day to hope you'll come home
There's always another night to cry all alone
The only way I go on hurting this way
Is when I tell myself there's always another day
There's always another day and I'm waitin' here
Just hoping that you'll come back and dry all my tears
I know I must believe you'll come back to stay
And so I tell myself there's always another day [choir]
I know I must believe you'll come back to stay
And so I tell myself there's always another day there's always another day
