you come around every now and then your clothes are different but your still the same why else would you come here? scumbag on a mission your tellin me that its been a while trade in your grin for a brand new lie somebody let you come here scumbag with permission i never thought i'd see the likes of you around this place whats the special occasion did you run out of friends? here you are coming around again acting so different but you still pretend you got a reason to come here scumbag with ambition and now your telling me that things have changed and you'll be leaving in a couple days your gonna change the world some day scumbag with a vision it must be nice to know you got it all figured out but from where i'm sitting it's the same thing again and again

you never stop to think before you open up your mouth cuz everytime you do its the same thing again and again
