We try but Avalon is always beside me
And I'm falling apart, where is my home?
A riot grows and his eyes opened up I once believed I would set you in line

If only I had the strength then maybe you could believe in something else

If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air
It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to please stop it now
If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air
It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to just tell me something

Through and through the alpha waves and power cables everywhere
Exercising self-control
The child calls and she lies open I once believed if only I was thinking at all

If only I had the strength then maybe you could believe
in something else

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to please
stop it now
If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air
It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to just tell
me something

in something else

It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to please
stop it now
If you keep asking me I'll melt away in the summer air
It won't hurt half as much and I'll beg for you to just tell
me something

You stole out like my...?
So I'm engaged to smile
