in the depths of duration
far away from a close
the extension of yet another ending shows
loss of time by the hour seasons scattered to the winds from the dying of tomorrow wearing thin

(chorus)
never to return
what is said to be
will not come to pass
tides no longer turn
what is yet to be
will not last

changes of little moment for the better or the worse?
into what is of no more,
in reverse
on the verge of existence one more rise falling through where the bloom of ever-enduring now once grew
