As he looks at the mirror he sees
All the scars he's obtained from the past memories
But he has no regrets of the past
Cause the future he holds is a hope that will last
As he turns and he runs from the gray
He's becoming a hunter instead of the prey
Like a redwood stuck in the ground
He can never be moved from the truth he's found
He says
I'm gonna shout it out
I'm gonna shout it loud
This world won't shake me now
I'm gonna shout it out
I'm gonna shout it loud
This world can't shake me now
As the earth all around him shakes
He just laughs as he stands like a five ton weight
Everything that surrounds him collides
But he's safe from it all cause he sees through the lies
With his hands lifted up to the air
Now he calls out a name that the rocks only dare
His faith nailed down so tight
Like the nails that were binding his God that night
He says
No.....They won't ever move me
No.....So why even try
No.....They won't ever understand a faith that they deny
No.....I won't keep the silence
No.....I will amplify
No.....There will be no whispers my stand will intensify
