"Sometimes"

Scientists predicted it would die out on its own Analysts decreed that its affects were overblown Skeptics conjured theories to account for the unknown But it's been around a while, It'll be here when they're gone

Sometimes It's a window
Sometimes it's a wall Sometimes it's a place where people shatter when they fall
Sometimes it's a River
Sometimes it's a flood Sometimes it's a place where people drown and come back up

Scholars wrote it off as just an odd coincidence Weathermen were puzzled by the nature of events Philosophers were driven to an incoherent tangle Spin doctors and hockers couldn't seem to find anangle

Everything depends on how you answer when you get that call
Will it be your window or will it be your wall
