Verse 1:

You say you never felt this way before It's like you want to give it up but you're not sure You feel like you're alone - all by yourself But you wouldn't even know with Him on the shelf Lie after lie that your brain was fed Soon the faith in your heart wasn't in your head Slowly you are starting to doubt it But now you won't even allow it Little did you know that the cross you bore Shouted out to the world to hate you more Watching all your friends just walk away Made you take another look at the choice you made I feel this is something real It's got a little bit more than the flesh appeals to A lot of people say things But I've got something to say

Chorus:

You ran away 'cause you're afraid You blamed it on a circumstance You gave up faith, you played the game You didn't even take a chance

Verse 2:

No, it's not religion, it's a way of life
No, I don't have A.D.D. it's the way I wanna be It's your own decision, you can live or die
Let Him be your everything, be the voice of reasoning
Is the feeling controversial
I can give it to you watered down or get personal
The choice that you made was pure emotion
Now the feeling's gone and you lost devotion
There will be no compromise
If He said it then believe it, open up your eyes
See the wonderful creation that He's made in you
There's a reason the season that he brought you through
I don't care how you react

All I really need to do is just state the fact That the life you're living now's not reality So get over yourself - suck it up - and get ready

Bridge:

The battle isn't easy, but someone has to fight it The story isn't finished and someone has to write it
