So I saw you sneaking through the back door
Heartfelt and I knew you needed something
To hold you over till your ship came in Bull's eye now I think it's something deeper
He paid only just to keep her
Shut up for another day

So cool and confident
For what it's worth what makes sense
Are you finally where you need to be
And finally all that's left is broken hearts and shattered glass
Will you find the place you need to be

So is it even worth the trouble
To break the rope and face the struggle
Of just another day alone
And I saw you sneaking through the back door
You cried out, but everyone ignored you
Inside your prison cell alone

So cool and confident
For what it's worth what makes sense
Are you finally where you need to be
And finally all that's left is broken hearts and
shattered glass
Will you find the place you need to be

Close your eyes
Pretend this isn't happening

You said let's talk about it
You said it sure would mean a lot
But talking requires that you listen
You never listen
