Look inside me again and tell me please if I could breathe again
You're the air in my lungs and the very thing
I know that I needed
It was hard to be alone, but you showed me the way back home

So let me know where I should go
Because my feet won't seem to move
I'm still outside of your window
And the weather won't improve

Someone like you only comes around once in a lifetime
You're the circle to my square, the apple to my eye
You make me feel alive
back home

So let me know where I should go
Because my feet won't seem to move
I'm still outside of your window
And the weather won't improve
