As the day starts to break

I wake up in the city

It's just one more day

But something makes this one different

I found a love in the heart of the city

I found a love where there's none to be found

I walk down the street

A street paved with misery

It's just one more block and I'll be at your door

I found a love in the heart of the city

I found a love where there's none to be found

I found a love in the heart of the city

I found a love where there's none to be found

Now every day i spend with my baby

There's just one more day in this broken heart town

I found a love in the heart of the city

I found a love where there's none to be found

Oh, I found a love in the heart of the city

I found a love where there's none to be found
