I got something in my head
Something sleeping in my head
That I don't wanna wake up you see
Something in my head
And my lazy little body
Isn't ready yet to set it free
Well it's some ind of hibernation
Who will ever force me out
With a polar bear up there
How am I going to travel light?
I got something in my head
Like a lion in a cage, starving wild
And I've ran out of meat
Something in my head
Something crawling like a snake
In my bed, makes me rip off my sheets
Well it's an awkward situation
Trying to fight the jungle alone
But I gotta make my way through
If I wanna travel light

Lately I've been walking away, floating like a song in the air
Lately, I've been trailing away, I've been walking my way

I was standing on the edge
Of a mountain of clay
And I've got tired of wading through the mud
So I jumped to hit the ground
It was firm yeah it was hard
But I stood proudly up with my pain
Now I don't care about the scratches
As long as I'm alone here, now
Broken bones but empty head
I made it on my own this far

Lately I've been walking away, floating like a song in
the air
Lately, I've been trailing away, I've been walking my
way
