I wanted to leave you something, just to remember me by
It was harder than I expected, doesnt mean I did not try
The convenient way would be as hollow as your tone
But the only way Ill notice is when Im alone

I had it all figured out
Mirrored endorphins from me to you

I wanted to take just one thing only to remember you by It was harder than you expected, doesnt mean you could not try
And you found a way to say goodbye without a word
But the only way Ill notice is by your fucking words

I had it all figured out
Mirrored endorphins from me to you

She wont listen to me, she wont give me the time to figure out our lives
War is the word that she screamed as she ran away with me

Its easier to laugh, to shout, to realize to figure out
That this is where I wanna be tonight

No she screamed as she ran away with a banner that signified my life and what it could be But its just scattered pieces and Im running around to start all over again

I had it all figured out
Mirrored endorphins from me to you
