

Dallas Guild, The "Men In White Coats"

Visit "Men In White Coats" on MotoLyrics.com

I woke up dreaming, I was asleep.
The blackbirds call, calling me.

I woke up dreaming, I had escaped.
To where the leaves never fall, and nothing breaks.

It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.
It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.

While you were sleeping, I was awake.
Making plans for my great escape.
I was wasting time, not thinking straight.

It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.
It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.

Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.
Take me to the men in white coats.

It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.
It feels good, but is it good enough?
Take me to the men in white coats.

Visit Dallas Guild, The page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.