"Woven As One"

A soft light, emanates, from everything
Beautiful, beautiful
Remove your shoes, my breath knocked, out of me
Beautiful, beautiful
My knees went slack, embodies love, light and truth
Beautiful, beautiful
A new name, joined in, covenant
Beautiful, beautiful

Garden for lovers
A crown upon the head
A smile in the heart
A joy beyond compare
Where golden light becomes the red and red the white
Voices in the distance sing
Forever, and ever
Joy unspeakable, joy foretold
Ever new and ever

old I began to see,
Translucent, invisible
Like fabric, thanksgiving,
Similar to birds of flight
Pass through the fire,
drawn into the coals
Sound, light, fragrance, woven as one
Great flames of fire, seven torches
Whiter than white, so full of life
