

Damnwells, The

"Electric Harmony"

Visit "Electric Harmony" on MotoLyrics.com

The clock would ring just like a bell
The green in her eyes dropped out and fell everywhere
But I don't care
I can see that she's made of something else entirely

Has she completely gone crazy
She kissed me back and ran

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree
She looks me up and down again
She's looking out and I'm looking in
She's my electric harmony

I've counted all the things I can see
The spots and bumps
And valleys that are keeping you in
Then you begin to become a million things
I tried to gather all of them but I couldn't sing

Has she completely gone crazy
She kissed me back and ran

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree
She looks me up and down again
She's looking out and I'm looking in
She's my electric harmony

Did I catch your name
Was it something weird or something strange?
Did I catch your name
Did I catch your name
Was it something strange

She's my electric harmony and I'm her little paper tree
She looks me up and down again
She's looking out and I'm looking in
She's my electric harmony
She's my electric harmony

