I miss our conversations at that park picnic table
That sat in the middle of our grandmas apartments
I miss the way you smile, the way you say my name.
God knows that without you, I'll never be the same.

Ohh how I wish we were sitting there talking again,
You reaching over or holding my hand.
Despite all the things that we've done I want you to know
That until the day I see your face again
You'll always be my best friend.

I text you that day to ask you if you were okay
Sprawled out on that bathroom floor I knew you were
with our lord
And that you'd never text me back.

Ohh how I wish we were sitting there talking again,
You reaching over or holding my hand.
Despite all the things that I've done I want you to know
That until the day I see your face again
You'll always be my best friend. (X2)

The day they laid you in the ground
Is the day I knew my life changed.
So on top of your box is where I laid my favorite ring.
