Do you remember those times we spent on the edge?
Edge of desires with those dreams from our bed
And if these words I write down could explain
Would there be a need for the music to remain

Cause when temptation, it gets the better of you
I think it's your devil heart offering the thoughts you, the thoughts you
Can't refuse
And I've learned to notice, I'm not the only one Never tried to be something, purity of blood

Who can guess the future and what will happen in our hearts
No one, not machines, fortune tellers or cards
Just you and me, the satisfaction of cause
Just you and me and the satisfaction of cause

Feels like I've been dragging my soul
Through pieces of every broken home
Do you remember the satisfaction of cause?

This is the last line, I may never see you again
Holding our life line a flickering wick about to end
And just like a blue sky fills with rain
There's a need for music to wash your sins away

And who can guess the future and what will happen in our hearts
No one, not machines, fortune tellers or cards
Just you and me the satisfaction of cause
Just you and me the satisfaction of cause

Feels like I've been dragging my soul
Through pieces of every broken home
Do you remember the satisfaction of cause?
Feels like I've been dragging my soul
Through pieces of every broken home
Do you remember the satisfaction of cause?
Do you remember the satisfaction of cause?
Do you remember the satisfaction of cause?

Do you remember...
Do you remember...
Do you remember? The satisfaction of cause.
