You're honest even when you lie
Well, I wish you were closer than near
I must be blind 'cause you didn't intend to live
You just merely got it all wrong, I'm better off dead

'Cause I must remember to forget you
And I must remember you can't seem to

You're honest even when you lie
And in all of the kitchens in the world full of broken live
'Cause it doesn't happen when you're asleep
To the unspoken question I say, "Will you have me?"

'Cause I must remember to forget you
And I must remember you can't seem to

'Cause I must remember to forget you
And I must remember you don't seem to
