After all, they made them robed
Repeating all to live in her wall

Something to show me a change
You're wearing a mask from the night before
She's going places she should have never been
She should have never been

After all, they made them robed
Repeating all to live in her wall

Something to show me a change
You're wearing a mask from the night before
She's going places she should have never been
She should have never been

Something to show me a change
You're wearing a mask from the night before
She's going places she should have never been
She should have never been

Something to show me a change
You're wearing a mask from the night before
She's going places she should have never been
She should have never been
