

Salomé de Sainte Maréville

"Our Own World"

Visit "Our Own World" on MotoLyrics.com

Is it for this unfairness?

Is it for this poverty?

For all the unhumanity and the selfishness of this world?

For the acts of God and the illness that destroy our people?

Is it to honour the rights men?

Is it to remind their speech?

For the Republic foundations? for the fight of our ancestor slaves

And for all who forge our future?

Is it for these dictatorships?

For this discrimination and these wars?

maybe to build up again the slabs left by earthquakes?

Or these bodies still missing under these ruins?

For women and children forgotten?

Perhaps for the bravery of these scientifics

For these who've been condemned?

To have looked for the origin of our existence

Of our univers, the meaning of our life

For our ancestor slaves

For our ancestor researchers

For people that forged our life ways

For people dying for our justice

For people perishing for our freedom

For people we're watching die everyday

For people living without drinking water

Without neither care nor hospitality

For all the others we're thinking about and we don't forget...

Submitter's comments:Â

a song to denounce the injustice

