"my dear"

how long, is too long to wait outside your windowpane standing soaked, in the rain night light, slowly turns from blue to grey to red static crackles in my head cause I heard what you said oh my dear, saying all the things that they wanted you to say can you feel me slip away?

Oh my dear, dreaming all the things they wanted you to dream but you gave me everything when you asked me to sing, I love you, and I love you too hush there, the wind insures that you dont make a sound stepping softly into town the pale light, sends a warning you dont care to hear I can sense it when youre near cause of all that you feel and they said dont believe it, im leaving it all for now and you said you wont leave me, not in my darkest hour

and they said dont believe it,
and you said wait,
I understand it now oh my dear
