After all this you might just say don't hold your breath
inside
and maybe we can make it anyway.
And there's so many reasons why,
and now I found myself and maybe I can hold my head
up high

And then it hits me and it feels like drowning
under the surface I'll stay.
And every second when I feel like cryin'
I let myself go anywhere.

You push me further then I can go and then I find myself believing everything you had to show.
So everywhere I should have gone,
and everthing I might have known before I started living stoned.

And then it hits me and it feels like drowning
under the surface I'll stay.
And every second when I feel like cryin'
I let myself go anywhere.

And then it hits me and it feels like drowning
under the surface I'll stay.
And every second when I feel like cryin' I let myself go,
No I can't let myself go.
No, I can't let myself go anyway!
