

South Sixty Five "Love Will Last"

Visit "Love Will Last" on MotoLyrics.com

There's a movie house on Main Street
Where he first held her hand
They're gonna tear it down next week
'Cause the city wants the land
And that high school gym where they first danced
Is ten years gone
It seems their love's the only thing still standing strong

The winds of change will always blow
The seasons come, the seasons go
But love will last
And they've seen better, they've seen worse
But as long as they can put each other first
Love will last

They've got an old box by the sofa
Filled with photographs
With his arms wrapped tight around her
They're sortin' through the past
They're laughin' at the way he looked with longer hair
They can't believe those silly clothes they used to wear

The winds of change will always blow
The seasons come, the seasons go
But love will last
They've seen better, they've seen worse
But as long as they can put each other first
Love will last

Always there, all alone
Love is the one thing they know they can count on

And they've seen better, they've seen worse
But as long as they can put each other first
Love will last
Love will last
Love will last
Love will last
Love will last

