

The Soviettes

"There's A Banana In My Ear"

Visit "There's A Banana In My Ear" on MotoLyrics.com

You said "They hate us for our freedoms"
You said "There'll soon be less to hate"
You said "Keep your voices low" and You said "Always trust the state"
"Keep your money in the markets, re-educate the nations youth"
"The papers wouldn't print what isn't true"
And so filters become layered
And so nothing can get through
And so all you hear are whispers
About the bullshit that we pull
No-one will name those to blame
For one hundred red hot years
And since no-one can listen
No-one hears
Guess that's why the college kids would rather tune out than tune in
Guess so, whatever, I don't know-its easier to join than win
How can it fucking matter when no-one knows whats true?
No-one can be blamed for what no-one ever knew
So cover up your tracks
Wash your hands free from their blood
No-one knows they hate us for what we've done

Visit The Soviettes page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.