"Siren"

Why do you decide to run these circles bruised around my thighs?
Sleepless nights the bleeding clots, why your eyes
encapture my thoughts?
Staring at, smirking at my ways lying down I whisper
you can stay.
Why can't everything just go my way?
Caught in this trap, you sneer as I fall my list of desires, your company is all.
You come as a siren who lures me to betray.
I came as a temptress, unaware I'd be losing my game.
Why do you conclude that you can look right through my eyes expecting to read what I'm feeling here.
Claiming beauty left you dear. This cliches what drives my force to you.
It's the element breaking us too. If things were up to me
I'd follow through.
Caught in this trap, you sneer as I fall my list of
desires, your company is all.
You come as a siren who lures me to betray.
I came as a temptress, unaware I'd be losing my game.
Who do I react this way? Why is it that I swoon to pay you back with this vendetta out.
I hate you for the pain, the doubt.
Never is our day of fucking bliss this beatlejuice comes jaded for my kiss.
Little suicides defend the pain.
The ghost of you that follows (haunts) me is held to blame.
If I had you, I would not complain Why do you attempt to taste the sweet enjoyment of this chase.
Never thinking, never true
