Waking up inside a nightmare lying down where I fell What's reflected in the mirror is nothing more than a shell

Somebody wake me up
Take me from this place
Show me somewhere I belong
Somebody wake me up
Take me from this place
Make me see what I've become

Someone is singing a song in my head
Voices are crying unless they are fed
Maybe you're better off if they are dead

Baby I have something to confess
There is no more feelings to suppress
Is there any rule I won't transgress?
It's never ending!
They are screaming words I can't forget
Something that I hope I will regret
Still accusing me to be some threat
I search for closure

All these bodies that surrounds me
All this blood on my hands
Somethings aching deep inside of me
So much hate, so much pain

Somebody wake me up
Take me from this place
Show me somewhere I belong
Somebody wake me up
Take me from this place
Make me see what I've become

Someone is singing a song in my head
Voies are dying unless they are fed
Maybe you're better off if they are dead

Baby I have something to confess
There is no more feelings to suppress
Is there any rule I won't transgress?
It's never ending!
They are screaming words I can't forget
Something that I hope I will regret
Still accusing me to be some threat
I search for closure

The rain will come to rescue me, it will pour all over the crime scene
It may wash the blood off, hide these tears but it will never become clean

Baby I have something to confess
There is no more feelings to suppress
Is there any rule I won't transgress?
It's never ending!
They are screaming words I can't forget
Something that I hope I will regret
Still accusing me to be some threat
I search for closure

Baby I have something to confess
There is no more feelings to suppress
Is there any rule I won't transgress?
It's never ending!
They are screaming words I can't forget
Fragments of my sins are coming back
Maybe I will get some rest at last?
In my eternal sleep...
