She don't hear me when I think her name
She don't see what you could look right through
All she really does is make me blue
She's not you

She don't hold a candle to the stars
She don't hold the pink up to the blue
She don't hold my horses the way you do
She's not you

She's not you, no matter what she do
I love her too, but she's not you

Diamonds shine like starlight next to glass
Moon light shines like silver in the dew
It doesn't matter what you compare her to
She's not you

She's not you, no matter what she do
I love her too, but she's not you

Evening was a shimmer in your hair
Time was just a button on your gown
The memory's a torture I'm going through
She's not you

She's not you, no matter what she do
I love her too, but she's not you

She's not you, she's not you
She's not you, she's not you
She's not you, she's not you
