Lay to rest

And ease your mind

leave the world behind

to try to find a place in which to leave things be coming back to realize that everything will be

alright.....

unyielding situations always seem to hide behind my door spilled out and pouring on an open floor well everything's alright

alright

i'm taking it back alright

alright

online to see and hear what's going on with who and why and what deprived and always laden in bad luck he sometimes feels like giving up but everything's alright

alright

alright

finding faults in anything i've heard and seen it all before helpless to all that's going on an endless ride just slips right through no calls and sitting waiting by the phone thinking of regrets no one to see him feeling all alone wanting someplace to call home

alright

alright

alright.....etc.
