I'll go, take a walk inside your head so that i can see your thoughts I'll try not hold back what I'm thinking when you smile for your blue skies for those times you felt alive breath in and softly release it, i won't let you go

i think i know what you won't tell me i've got this figured out and then you go and change it go and change
go and change it
go and change it
go and change it

you know, you've got me in your hands i'll break before i walk tonight we broke our plans to play games with our hearts for your blue skies for those times you felt alive breath in and softly release it i won't let you go

go and change
go and change it
go and change it
go and change it
