"Love And Devotion"

You can talk about a change in the weather
You can tell me that our lives would be better
But I always thought we can rise above

And I remember the times we were together
And I would never, ever fall shy as to whether
I would ever want to do it over again

I would never, for a minute, reconsider the notion
I'm all in it for a little bit of love and devotion

Even though some hearts may be broken
There may be words that you and I have never spoken
But I'm hoping that love will keep us together
