

Spocks Beard "Long Time Suffering"

Visit "Long Time Suffering" on MotoLyrics.com

I never saw such a place in all my life
This is tomorrow's song, I think I've waited too long
Can't seem to see through the scraping of the sky
And now it seems so wrong to think I spent such a

Long time suffering and crying to the sky
Long time suffering and never knowing why

I have a gift that can see beyond the years
The touch so refined, I have transcended all time
My heart can reach through the secret well of tears
And when they all come out won't have to spend such a

Long time suffering and crying to the sky
Long time suffering and never knowing why
The child awakening to a city in the sky
I spent such a long time suffering and never knowing why

I may be only seventeen but I see things
Look at the woman who's head keeps hangin' down
I cannot feel her hate, I feel her needing Somehow I feel like I cannot let her down

I never saw such a place in all my life
This is tomorrow's song, I waited much too long
The change can come in a twinkling of an eye
The slave running free, the salmon floating downstream
The change can come in a twinkling of an eye
The slave running free, so why'd we spend such a

Long time suffering and crying to the sky
Long time suffering and never knowing why
The child awakening to a city in the sky
Spent such a long time suffering, long time suffering

The change can come in the twinkling of an eye

Visit Spocks Beard page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

