Today I opened my eyes
To a whole new world
Another state of mind
A life without you
So I try

And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you

And for the first time
I understand
What I am without you
So I try to hold on
To you, to you

And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you, without you
I am nothing

And I have wandered so far away
From your embrace
And still the seasons change
For the first time I realize
What I am without you, without you
