

Withered

"Clamor Beneath"

I've seen you watch the suffering within your world of hope
Your tears rinse away the shame you've felt from long ago
Your time has been spent seeking the path to righteousness
Each tear will bring you your reward of higher consciousness

Eyes, burn, eyes, numb

You clamor, strive to keep the grace of narcissistic peers
They watch you, misshapen and distorted through their callous tears

Sufferers, distraught with self pity Cleansing your pain with empty tears
Mass congregation, breeding ignorance Corrupting the path, like those before you

Each day I wake, I suffer moments of clarity Moments of realization and truth I look out upon the masses, I look down upon the masses Sympathy sways to disregard

The weight of humanity presses upon me Thorns of contempt and of disgust Strip away all my compassion Caricatures, in words and deeds

Eyes, burn, numb
Drown in tears
