Wake for the rising tale

Fool of another day

The treasure you held in the night before

Means nothing in the light - nothing for you

Cry and cry and cry

They won't keep your tears

Drink a last glass of the blood of this world

To close the gate behind me and you

And the stars shine bright

For you and me and for a little while...

A heart of steel and a cripple of life

We will leave to follow the dark

May they shout or scream or yell or may they die in fear

We're enclosed in slightly silence

And the stars ...

The wind sounds lovely for a walk tonight

To pass the glass that we broke

Love gets deep into and love will hurt

Wait for the glowing sacrifice to come

And the stars
