Well, we took a train to Kensington
And listened to the children run
Just beyond the garden gate
Where Peter and Wendy played

There was a sign that said we weren't allowed
To duck inside and join the crowd
Without a son or daughter's hand
To lead us into Neverland

And it hurt so bad
But it's so good to be young
And I don't wanna go back
I just wanna go on and on and on
Day by day, day by day

Oh, and everybody's so surprised
When right before your very eyes
Your baby's in the second grade
You blink and it's her wedding day

Well we just can't get used to being here
Where the ticking clock is loud and clear
Children of eternity
On the run from entropy

And it hurts so bad
But it's so good to be young
And I don't wanna go back
I just wanna go on and on and on

So don't lose heart
Though your body's wasting away
Your soul is not
It's being remade
Day by day by day
Day by day, day by day

Well, you have never met a single soul
Who didn't feel the curse's toll
Who didn't wish that death would die

Well maybe that's the reason why

It can hurt so bad
But it's so good to be young
And I don't wanna go back
I just wanna go on and on and on
On and on and on

So don't lose heart
Though your body's wasting away
Your soul is not
It's being remade
Don't lose heart
No, don't lose heart
Your body will rise and never decay
Day by day by day
Day by day, day by day
Day by day
