(Steve Summers)

open up your eyes and try to see now because it's a long dark road you turned to go down but you just wanted to try to taste a small piece of the high well was it everything you expected there it is silence in my head again like a bullet in your head it's bound to kill you and like a modern day judas it will betray you it's more than just some sweet ambrosia or some magic pill to kill the pain this vicious doctor is going to cure you just close your eyes and wish just wish it away

slowing down the dripping faucet is getting louder slowing down, melt away
now i'm tired of hearing you say that it's under control and that it's really not much while you fuck your friends yeah you fuck your friends and still you're telling me what cause there's the eyes that lie and there's the eyes that try but still you're telling me what as the drool is running down you're face you keep telling me what well listen to me
there it is silence in my head again
