(Steve Summers)

waking to an early morning caffeine to ignite the brain it seems that life is going nowhere growing colder every day well i've almost reached the point of saturation soaking up all the tears of yesterday well don't you know that you could be anything and don't you know that you could be anyone and don't you know that it keeps happening until you step up and step out and realize that you're the only one fly away from your super broken super breakdown fly away from your super broken super breakdown

fallen angels gather all around me they're talking to me and i believed all they had to say and all those days that once adored me so very trusting well it seems those days have gone away from me
until you step out and step up and realize
super breakdown
