"Dreamgirl"

I'm sitting alone drinking alcohol
I'm writing a song about you
I know it's so sad, maybe even mad
But I know what you're doing behind my back

And you say you're in love, in love with me
But I know that you're lying to me

You say you're in love, in love with me
But I know that you're lying to me

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

You're nothing but a hoe, always ready to go
You sold your soul for a little dough
And I can't understand how we could be friends
Let go out of my hand, this is where it ends

And you say you're in love, in love with me
But I know that you're lying to me

You say you're in love, in love with me
But I know that you're lying to me

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

And you say you're in love, in love with me
But I know that you're lying to me

You say you're in love, in love with me

But I know that you're lying to me

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?

My dream girl is gone now and the story goes on
So what can I do with my life without you?
