'Hey, wait a minute,
That's not right.
I didn't want this to cause a fight
All I'm saying is, nothing new
Listen to me, believe it's true.
What's there to hide, it baffles me,
Throw out those thoughts, of jealousy,
So don't you cry, and bow your head,
It's Over. It's Over. It's Over.
So, wait a minute, let me explain.
Out of the blue she called again.
To offer me a peaceful meal,
So we can talk, see how we feel.
It's nothing more than face to face,
So trust in me, I know my place,
I know it's hard, to let me go, but
It's Over. It's Over. It's Over.
It's Over.
Have confidence, have faith,
There is no attraction there.

And believe me, this way, I can wash her from my hair.
Have confidence, have faith
There is no attraction there,
And believe me, this way, I can wash her from my hair.
Hey, wait a minute, what's going on?
I'm coming home, where I belong,
It's nothing more, than face to face,
Give me the time to pack my case,
I know it's hard, to let me go,
But It's Over.
What's there to hide?
It baffles me, Why should you waste your energy?
But I won't leave, if you're not sure,
That It's Over. It's Over. It's Over.
It's Over.'

lyrics by: Chris Difford and Glenn Tilbrook
