I want a waiter to give us a reprimand
In a language neither of us understand
While we argue about the customs of the land
I wish I could go traveling again

(I want to) sit in traffic anxious about our plane
While your blase comments drive me half insane
I want to dash for shelter with you through the tropical rain
I wish I could go traveling again
(I want to) be awakened by a faulty fire alarm
In an overpriced hotel devoid of charm
Then fall asleep again back in your arms
I wish I could go traveling again

But how can I ever go traveling again
When I know I'll just keep remembering again
When I know I'll just gathering again
Reminders to break my heart ?

I wish could go traveling again
It feels like this summer will never end
And I've had such good offers from several of my friends
I wish I could go traveling again

I wish I could go traveling again
It feels like this summer will never end
And I've had such good offers from several of my friends
I wish I could go traveling again

(I want to) sit in my shades, sipping my latte
Beneath the awning of a famous cafe
Jet-lagged and with our luggage gone astray
I wish I could go traveling again
