We fail to see
How destructive we can be
Taking without giving back
Til the damage can be seen
Can you see?
Can you see?

The more you take
The more you blame
But everything still feels the same
The more you hurt
The more you strain
The price you pay to play the game

And all you see
And all you gave
And all you step on with no shame
There are no rules
No one to blame
The Price To Play the game

Apathy, the chosen way to be
Running off the other way
While you waste away with me
Can you see?
Can you see?

The more you take
The more you blame
But everything still feels the same
The more you hurt
The more you strain
The price you pay to play the game

And all you see
And all you gave
And all you step on with no shame
There are no rules
No one to blame
The price you pay to play the game

What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game

The more you take
The more you blame
But everything still feels the same
The more you hurt
The more you strain
The price you pay to play the game

And all you see
And all you gave
And all you step on with no shame
There are no rules
No one to blame
The price you pay to play the game

What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game
What you pay to play the game
