It's the light that falls around the place she stands
It's the way you know she makes you a better man
Then you walk away, like you do so well
And you ask yourself, and I ask myself

Would it be so hard
To let yourself feel something
Would it be so strange
To let yourself go
Would it be such a drag
Just to finally let somebody get inside
Your lonely life

My lonely life gets cold
I wish I could wrap her up inside my soul
I wish I could call her up and tell her all the secrets that I keep
But these words are said inside my head

Would it be so hard
To let yourself feel something
Would it be so strange
To let yourself go
Would it be such a drag
Just to finally let somebody get inside
Your lonely life

I don't wanna be here
I don't wanna let her go
How did she get in here
Then she whispers, she whispers...

Would it be so hard

Would it be so hard
To let yourself feel something
Would it be so strange
To let yourself go
Just to finally let somebody get inside
My lonely life... yeah
My lonely life

Would it be such a drag
Just to finally let somebody get inside
My lonely life

Lonely life
