"The Eternal Sunshine Of A Spotted Heart"

Well it was September when she pressed her chest to mine and whispered,
"Our journey ends love, but I won't forget us."
The ocean waves, took her heart away.
I carried that Tuesday on my shoulder, but she didn't know,
The tears running down my face would show
for weeks.
Like tidal waves, sunk my heart each day.

Memories fall
For ending it all
But moving on, there's eternal sunshine
In love and loss spotting your heart.

Well it was December when I saw her give her heart to my friend.
I felt my heart split, but then I forgave it.
Like cresting waves, crashing down today.
When January came I started over, but she didn't know,
I met a girl and we'll see where it goes from here.
Like ocean waves, finding love again.

Memories fall
For ending it all
But moving on, there's eternal sunshine
In love and loss spotting your heart.

She could have been my girl and started over.
Heh
I'd rather not...

Memories fall
For ending it all
But moving on, there's eternal sunshine
In love and loss spotting your heart.
